DINANT HAS BEEN OPPRESSED OF OLD

Among ancient cities of Belgium still under the heel of the Hun is Dinant. "Way back in 1466, Dinant knew something of atrocities. Because some of the young men of the place caricatured Charles, Duke of Burgundy, he tied 800 citizens in pairs and drowned them, hanged many more and made slaves of the surviving men. Then he burned the city. The city is on the Meuse, just south of Namur, and on the line which the Germans are said to have fortified for their final stand in Belgium.

CHAIRMAN HURLEY CANCELS SHIP ORDER

EDWARD HURLEY.

Chairman Edward N. Hurley, of the shipping board, has canceled a $60,000,000 contract awarded the Bethlehem Steel company at Alameda, Cal. Work on six new shipways for the building of 12,000-ton troop transports consequently has been stopped at the yard. The reason given is that since the expansion of the Bethlehem-Union yard was decided on last spring, production and conversion of ships have been brought to such a point there are now in sight enough vessels to meet all the demands on troop movement on the eight division plan, which contemplates the placing of more than 4,000,000 men in France by next June.
